

Asking Verbiage Ideas For Hosting

I'm glad I caught you. I only have a minute, do you have a quick minute? Great. I'm not sure if you heard, but my Arbonne business is unbelievable right now (pause and wait for response). I'm actually doing so well that I'm working toward my next promotion (trip, gift, etc). Isn't that crazy? So what I need to do to get there is find just two more people to gather a few friends for me. You are so fun Jane. I was hoping YOU would be one of them! How does that sound?

I'm glad I caught you. I only have a minute, do you have a quick minute? Great. I wanted to check in with you because I was looking at the client service card you filled out last week and you had marked you might want to take advantage of all of those awesome hosting freebies and deals. (Pause, wait for response) I wanted to let you know that I'm offering an even sweeter deal for anyone who gets on my calendar in the next 2 weeks. I know you love a great deal! Right now, you will get....(fill in with whatever you're giving). It would be so fun to do this together!!How does that sound?

I'm glad I caught you. I only have a minute, do you have a quick minute? Great. I'm so excited to get your get together rescheduled. I remember how much you loved the _____(fproduct). Wanted to let you know that right now, you can actually get the _____(fill in with product) for FREE (or discounted) when you have a get together in the next two weeks. Isn't that amazing?

I'm glad I caught you. I only have a minute, do you have a quick minute? Great. Listen, I'm a little frantic right now because my business is exploding! But I just had to reach out to you and find out if you still thought it would be fun to do a little friends get together? Now's the time because I'm EXTRA motivated to book because I'm so close to hitting my personal goal. You name it....what would you love to get for free just for picking a date?

I'm glad I caught you. I only have a minute, do you have a quick minute? Great. I'm not sure if you've heard but I've started a side gig! (wait for response) I'm in love with Arbonne products and now, I get to share them and even earn some income. It's going really great so far! (wait for response) One thing that almost stopped me from saying yes was not wanting to bug my friends. You know that's not me! But I've heard from so many that they really want to help me get going and that's made me even more excited! I've decided to put my fear aside and reach out for help to a few friends. I really need to meet a few new people this month and I know you know such awesome people I don't know. Would you want to gather them and introduce me? I'll bring a bunch of goodies they will love and you get _____(fill in with what you are giving)! How